

2020 NATIONAL WATER POLICY FLY-IN

YOUNG PROFESSIONAL SCHOLARSHIP

Your voice is powerful. It has the ability to educate and influence policymakers on what matters most to you. Only you can voice your concerns and make your voice heard.

The scholarship program seeks to provide you with an opportunity to participate in the highest levels of policy advocacy before Congress and the Administration as well as to build professional connections with water professionals across the nation.

This unique scholarship gives you the platform to speak up and to help WEF deliver a message to federal officials that sound policy and robust investment in water are critical for all Americans right now!

Scholarship Deadline:
March 20, 2020

SCHOLARSHIP VALUE:
$400 (covers cost of registration)

How to apply:

Contact your Member Association to join the delegation from your state coming to the Fly-In.

As the Trump Administration and Congress continue to focus on infrastructure investment, PFAS, and CWSRF funding — all bipartisan issues — it is crucial that policymakers hear directly from YOU about the challenges your utility, agency, and community face. Join us in DC to tell our lawmakers that sound policy and robust investment in water are critical for all Americans right now.

The National Water Policy Fly-In, held in cooperation with the Water Environment Federation, National Association of Clean Water Agencies, WaterReuse, and The Water Research Foundation, will offer opportunities for you to engage with EPA, Administration officials, Members of Congress, and fellow water professionals.

The Fly-In is part of Water Week 2020 — a collaboration between nine national water sector associations — which will bring over 300 water professionals from across the nation to Washington, D.C.

Together, we can move the levers of power, and continue advancing water priorities on the national and local levels.

Make your voice heard at the National Water Policy Fly-In!
